DOSES OF FACTS.

NEWLANDS AND WREN GIVE THE PEOPLE AN EYE-OPENER.

The Opera House Packed to the Doors.

Carson was alive last night with expectant citizens, anxious to hear Hon. Francis G. Newlands and Hon. Thos. Wren speak on the issue nearest the hearts of all Nevadans—free coinage. The bonfires blazed, the band played, and by 8 o'clock the Opera House was full, and Temporary Chairman Folsom introduced ex Governor Adams as the Chairman of the evening amid great applause. Following is a list of the Vice-Presidents:

Messrs. Stewart, Nixon, Richards, Jones, Circe, Leary, Johnson, Mitterdorfer, Uren, Wylie, Burlingame, Chedie, Kelly, Coffee, Longabaugh, Herriek, Aube, Cohn, Ambrosetti, Thorne, Hanford, Frechette, Noteware, Oleovich, Reynolds, Dupuis, Logan, Muller, Bryant, Morris, Larsen, Hickey, Robert, Copps, Guinan, Cook and Sharon.

Gov. Adams made a few remarks on the benefits of free coinage and in a short speech appealed to the voters of Nevada to stand up to the front and fight for silver against everything.

The Glee Club composed of the following gentlemen, John Harper, John Cadew, Fred Harris, Edwin Pascoe, Geo. Laity, Jas R. Williams, Ed Richards, Fred Trevillian, Wm. Dunston, Chas. Cavanaugh, Harry Cardew, John Pascoe, John Laity and Prof. Carr, then turned loose a red hot rally song, receiving an encore to which they responded.

HON. FRANCIS G. NEWLANDS

Was then introduced and received with rapturous applause.

Owing to the lateness of the hour and the length of Mr. Newlands' speech, it was impossible to have it transcribed and placed in condition for the printer. His address was masterly and his arguments irrefutable. He was frequently interrupted by rapturous applause, and held the attention of the audience throughout.

The said that self-preservation is the first law of nature, and he would refuse to believe that there is a citizen in the State of Nevada, who would do anything that would not tend to its welfare and preservation. More than one-half the people of the State are engaged in or dependent upon the mining industry, and without that industry what would become of our State? With the immense amount of wealth that has been taken from the mines even now Nevada should be prosperous, if proper legislation in regard to silver had been enacted. Instead of enriching and building up our own State, what has become of its wealth? It has gone to enrich an ungrateful city, whose every effort is in opposition to our interests.

Mr. Newlands drew a vivid picture of the desolation which has been brought about by legislation antagonistic to silver. In Candelaria he had a personal interview with the Superintendent of the only mine in operation, and from him learned that it was simply for humanity's sake that the mine was kept open at all, as with silver at its present price the company was running behind monthly. Unless something is done in the interests of silver, and very soon, the Superintendent said he would certainly be obliged to close down which would mean the depopulation of the entire town.

In other places where good properties might be developed, prospectors sat around the stove and discussed the silver question, not having the heart to make any effort at development. In Storey county the mines are capable of sustaining a very large population, but will the price of silver warrant it? In that district there is any quantity of low grade ore, which at the present time will not pay for working. If it were not for the present system of assessments one-half of the mines on the Comstock would be closed. If stockholders refuse to pay assessments the mines will be shut down. Ormsby and Lyon counties depend upon the Comstock, and if the mines close, what will become of those counties? Douglas is to a great extent in the same category.

He had recently been through Eastern Nevada, and he drew a vivid picture of the effect of hostile silver legislation in that section.

What would be the effect on Reno, which reflects the general prosperity of the State, if silver were remonetized?

How had silver been depressed? By legislation. Then restore it by legislation. We are told we must delay the agitation because the European nations will soon act. England is a creditor nation, while America is a debtor nation, rich in everything but money. One foreign nation will not act without the others, especially without England. How will England act? If we say money is scarce with us, England will say there is no scarcity of money there, and its principal commodity being gold it will not reduce its value. The English wheat market requires depreciated silver. If silver goes to $1.29 an ounce England will be compelled to buy our wheat instead of our silver and her profits will not be so large. Stop silver agitation here and you stop it everywhere.

The speaker read dispatches showing that the British government is opposed to a monetary conference. Conferences are held to withdraw public interest from the agitation. The proper thing to do is to have free coinage and not bother with conferences.

Mr. Newlands referred to the silver bills in Congress and explained several points not generally understood. He explained how Senators Stewart, Jones and others compelled action on silver by refusing to vote for other measures in which gold men were interested. If Harrison or Cleveland is elected, silver legislation will be delayed four years. General Weaver is the only free coinage candidate for President. He showed what the balance of power in the electoral college could accomplish for the silver interest, and cited several instances of the power of fusion. He gave a reasonable and satisfactory explanation of his change of politics, stating that as a member of the Bi-Metallic League he was pledged to support no candidate who was not pledged by platform and declaration to free coinage, and he was abiding by that pledge. The free coinage of silver has been the star by which he has guided his political bark, and he shall keep his eyes fixed upon that star even if it necessitates the crossing of party lines a hundred or a thousand times. Devotion is due to cause rather than individuals or party. This remark was received with cheers.

Referring to the minority Republican Convention held in Reno, he said it instructed its nominee for Representative in Congress to use every means in his power to remonetize silver, but denies its electors all independence of action.

Mr. Newlands was vociferously applauded at the close of his speech. He held the audience for an hour and three-quarters, and if he did not make many converts he certainly set Harrison and Cleveland men to thinking.

HON. THOMAS WREN

Was next introduced and made one of his characteristic speeches. Among other things he said:

The cause of widespread ruin was unquestionably the demonetizing of silver. The remedy must be the remonetization of silver.

How can its remonetization be secured? Is there any hope that either of the old parties will remonetize it? I answer unhesitatingly, not the remotest chance in the world unless forced to do it by the mighty uprising of the people for its remonetization that is now making itself felt and heard in every State in the Union. The men of the nation who want to be President and Cabinet officers, and Senators and Ministers abroad watch popular sentiment with close attention, and when they find that 3,000,000 voters have voted in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 you will see a wonderful change in Congress and in conventions to catch the voters of this vast army of honest citizens.

The People's party is our only hope. A convention of that party, numbering sixteen hundred representative men from every State in the Union adopted a platform in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, and nominated James B. Weaver, one of the earliest and bravest champions of silver, for the Presidency.

Under the leadership the people of every section of the Union are being educated upon the silver question. Under the circumstances shall the voice of the Silver State of Nevada be heard in any uncertain tone? Shall it be said that a Silver State has been untrue to silver? No, let our voice be practically unanimous in favor of our paramount interest, and it will be heard and heeded everywhere. The People's party will elect from 50 to 100 members to the Lower House of Congress and probably hold the balance of power in that body. Shall not Nevada send one? The Republicans will no longer have a majority in the Senate after the next session. The People's party will probably hold the balance of power in that body. A Republican will have no influence. A People's party Senator, brave old Senator Stewart for instance, will be all powerful.

The mining counties of the State are nearly unanimous for silver and well they may be. The Democratic party is committed by its national platform to the repeal of the present law for the purchase of 4,500,000 ounces of silver by the Government monthly.

John Sherman introduced a bill for its repeal to the Senate just before the close of last session of Congress. If this Act is repealed, and its repeal is imminent, it will leave us without any market for our silver. The destruction of silver mining will have been accomplished, and the greatest industry of four States will have been destroyed. Nothing but the most vigorous and radical action on our part can prevent this great calamity. Any coward can stand by party. It takes a brave and independent man to quit party at the call of duty.

My fellow citizens join with the brave and independent silver men of the eastern part of the State, who hold the interests of the State and principle above party, and a magnificent victory will be ours.

Mr. Wren was frequently interrupted by applause and at the close of his remarks he was roundly cheered.

That many were convinced last evening that the welfare and future prosperity of Nevada depends upon the success of the Silver party, is generally conceded. And Ormsby may be safely ranked in the list of silver counties.
